'Victory' Picnic Replaces Fiesta

Men Enter Beard Growing Contest

Outline V-12 Reserve Setup

Preparations for the all-college Victory picnic to be held May 16 were underway today coincident with the announcement that this event will replace the junior college annual Fiesta program, traditional highlight of the spring term.

Aids War Effort

Herbert Scott, Associated Student president and head of the planning committee, revealed that the picnic will be not merely a social affair, but an aid to the national war effort as well.

Tentative plans call for the election of a Don and Dona, on the basis of the number of war stamps and bonds sold. The man and woman contestant selling the most bonds and stamps will rule over the proceedings.

Beard Growing Contest

The annual beard growing contest will be one of the highlights of the picnic, according to Scott. Male entrants in this field will lay aside their razors until the picnic day when contest winners will be picked. Prizes will be given to possessor of the scrappiest, bushiest, and best-trimmed beards, he stated.

It has not yet been decided where the picnic will be held, Scott said. He indicated, however, that the place would be chosen next week.

Summer Term Wins Approval Of Board

The Rev. George Busdiecker was elected president of the new board of education at an organization meeting held earlier this week. Mrs. Florence Givens will serve as vice-president. Re-elected as secretary and business manager was Harold Yost.

The board also approved the junior college summer session program. The summer term will run from July 1 to August 27.

Under the approved plan all classes will be held at night. Three unit courses will meet each Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening for two-hour periods, while two unit courses will meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings for two hours. Registration for the summer term will be held June 29, and 30.

Recent Additions Made To Library

Recent additions to the college library were listed today by Librarian Lillian Dickson, who stated that "The Human Comedy" by William Saroyan is the most popular of the fiction group while "I Saw the Fall of the Philippines" by Colonel Carlos Romulo leads on the non-fiction list.

"The Human Comedy," according to Miss Dickson, has as its setting a small California town and the story centers about the trials of the Maccauley family. The father died before the war, leaving his wife to care for four children.

Colonel Romulo, author of "I Saw the Fall of the Philippines," was a Pulitzer prize winning Filipino journalist, who was the last man out of Bataan. He writes an honest, graphic, and moving account of exactly what he saw, Miss Dickson revealed.

Smith Earns Wings

John B. Smith, '41, has received his silver bombardier wings and commission as a second lieutenant in the army air force at the Midland (Texas) training school, Col. John P. Kenny, commanding officer, announced today.

REPORTED SAFE today after being listed as missing in action is Lt. Frank Hertzberg, former junior college student.

Tavern Post Ready To Go, Says Editor

Tavern Post contributions are now in the hands of the editorial staff and material for publication is being selected by the group, Editor Clifford Hale said today. Copy will go to the printer's next week, he stated.

"We should have a superior publication this semester," Hale revealed, "as we have more material to choose from and greater variety of composition."

In charge of selection of material for the semi-annual publication are Shirley Wright, Betty McMillen, Ed Scott, and Hale.

Cover for this semester's Post has been designed by Barney Langton, art editor. Elaine Howard is serving as business manager. Adviser to the Post is Miss Grace Knipe.

Williams Now a Corporal

Thurman L. Williams has been promoted from the rank of private to corporal, it was announced today by Colonel Mills S. Savage, commanding officer of the Bainbridge (Ga.) Army Air field.

Following Up

Following up a suggestion made last week by the Santa Ana Independent, El Don stands heartily in favor of renaming the so-called "El Toro Marine base."

El Toro is looked upon with contempt by many persons and the semantic insinuations contained in such a title discredits the base.

Walter Swanberger while at jaysee was an excellent student and a good athlete. He had fight and spirit. He carried it with him when he dedicated himself to the task of protecting his country.

It is only fair that we dedicate the base in his honor. Let's call it the Swanberger Marine base.

Expect Further Contributions

Thirty-two jaysee students and two instructors have signed up to represent the college in the next Red Cross blood plasma drive, which will come to Santa Ana May 27, Miss Jeanne Turner, newly appointed chairman, announced today.

This group of donors represents the largest number thus far to participate in the drive. Further signers are expected, Miss Turner said, as there are still a number of cards which have not yet been returned. She requested that all students have their cards signed and returned to her as soon as possible.

Dramatists Prepare Annual Presentation

Date of the annual three-act play given by the drama class was revealed today by Ernest Crozier Phillips drama instructor, who announced that the production will be staged June 4.

The play "A Riddle for Mr. Twiddle" is a mystery farce originally produced by the Pasadena Playhouse.

The cast is headed by Clifford Hale in the title role, with Gloria Golden, Bob Minnix, Jeanne Turner, George Tanner, Don Metz, Leon Ferguson, Barbara Nelson, and Robert Jones supporting.

STILL MISSING after a routine patrol flight earlier this week is Lt. John Cleary, former Santa Ana jaysee student.

Changes In Calendar Revealed By Office

Changes in the college calendar listed today by the office revealed a second change in the commencement date. According to present plans graduation exercises will be held Wednesday, June 16. Baccalaureate will be held Sunday, June 13, as previously scheduled.

As a result of the change in dates, Dr. Elam J. Anderson, president of the University of Redlands, has been secured to deliver the commencement address.

Complete schedule for college events during the remaining part of the semester are as follows:

May 4, Tavern Tattlers; May 5, Y.W.C.A. Mother-Daughter Banquet; May 10, women's service clubs; May 14, Spinsters Spree, Meninas formal; May 19, Y. W. C. A. party; May 21, Sigma Phi Sigma concert; May 24, women's service clubs; May 26, all-college picnic; June 1, Tavern Tattlers; June 2, W. A. A. Mother-Daughter banquet; June 4, annual college play.

NOW IS THE TIME

(An Editorial)

Justified criticism of the present junior college continues despite the fact that because of the war we cannot hope to build a new one for several years. But this is as it should be.

Now is the time to begin planning for a new jaysee, an institution that will be a credit to Santa Ana instead of a liability. Now is the time to demonstrate the inadequacies of the present site and facilities.

Had Santa Ana Junior college the proper facilities and room for expansion, it might have been able to contribute much more to the army and navy expansion program. As it is, we are struggling along as best we can, contributing our meager available educational resources toward furthering of the war's prosecution.

Are you proud of the present jaysee site—on a busy

Navy and Marines Follow Same Plan

Information on the V-12 college training program was given today by Ernest Crozier Phillips, armed forces representative, who outlined the course to be taken by navy and marine reservists falling in this class.

Follow Same Plan

Both navy and marine reserves will follow the same general pattern, Mr. Phillips indicated. He further stated that members of both reserve programs will be called up about July 1.

Reservists will be sent to one of 300 colleges throughout the country, depending upon their field. Faculty members for instructing classes will be supplied by the colleges. They will recommend texts and give the examinations.

Will Be Kept Busy

According to Mr. Phillips, it is expected that the average student will find it necessary to devote from 52 to 58 hours per week to classes, laboratory work, and preparation.

Students will live on the campus, be allowed to join fraternities and participate in outside activities if their work is satisfactory, Mr. Phillips said.

Former Instructor Gets $500 Grant

Word received here today states that Dr. John Brown Mason, associate professor of social science at Fresno State college, and former faculty member of the Santa Ana jaysee, has received the grant of $500 from the Social Science Research council for the completion of his study "The Free City of Danzig, 1919-39."

His book, which will be finished this summer and will be published by the Stanford University press, will be the first full length study of the international aspects of Danzig in the English language.

High School Aids Jaysee

Santa Ana Senior high school Latin club members have contributed to the junior college student loan fund by buying a war bond and sending it to the college, it was learned today.

The money for the bond was taken from the club treasury. Adviser to the group is Miss Josephine Arnoldy.

News Briefs

William Elliott is now stationed at Arlington, Calif.

Kramer J. Rohfleisch, former junior college instructor, has been commissioned as a second lieutenant, according to advices received here today.

The college catalog will appear on or about June 1, Registrar Mabel G. Whiting announced this morning. She is in charge of the publication this year.

Paul Wright, '33, former El Don editor, is new editor of the Solar Blast, monthly illustrated magazine published by the Solar Aircraft company, San Diego.

Gloria Kirchner Stanford, '39, has been promoted to an assistant editor on the staff of the NEA newspaper syndicate in Cleveland, Ohio.

highway, where ambulances and fire trucks shriek past, where heavy trucks and busses roar? Are you proud of the buildings—the condemned College hall, the bleak, squalid bungalows, the antiquated board of education structure? Are you proud of its facilities—poorly equipped laboratories and offices, cramped, crowded classrooms, no gymnasium or athletic field?

For years the junior college has been the blight of Santa Ana. For years we have endured the ridicule heaped upon our heads by neighboring cities with modern, well-equipped buildings. Now is the time to set in motion the forces which will soon lead to an end of such mockery and satirization.

With the help of the new board of education members Santa Ana can have a new junior college. It is up to them to start the ball rolling. Their aim should be to promote education, to prevent it from being held up as an object of contempt and insignificance.

Now is the time!

War and the Junior College

Junior colleges long before the Pearl Harbor incident were feeling the effects of the war. Today their problem has grown until they are fighting for their very existence. With the need for manpower for the services and also in industry, the future of many junior colleges is uncertain and many are closing up altogether, perhaps for good.

Our young men, and in most cases our young women, of junior college age are not thinking in terms of a four-year college course at this time. For the men, military service is just ahead or has already claimed them; and high wages in defense industries offer them an opportunity to fill in the time between their graduation from high school and their induction into the service with very profitable employment.

The girls of junior college age are sharing the general feeling of unrest with the men and many of them are taking advantage of the opportunity to enter employment, either in war production plants or as stenographers in government offices.

Many college administrators are so thoroughly sold on a liberal arts program for junior colleges that they are almost apologetic for offering anything like short-time terminal courses. However, more than ever, they are beginning to realize the necessity of offering such courses. One of the very important phases of junior college work should be its guidance program. In a certain sense every junior college instructor should make a contribution in the field of guidance, but in addition every junior college should have a staff member who has been especially trained in this type of work.

This was true here until a few weeks ago when H. J. Sheffield left to enter the armed service. At a time like this it is hard to find instructional replacements, but college officials are to be commended for their progressiveness by making Mr. Sheffield director of the junior college guidance program when they did.

Every effort should be made to keep students in college until they are called into military service or have completed their two year courses. Practically all army and navy men agree that whenever it is possible, college students should stay in school until they are called into service. The girls should be urged to complete as much training as possible before accepting employment, as in this way their chances for getting a good job are enhanced and their chances for promotion are greatly increased.

Scientists May Bring Utopia

By CONNIE ROUNSVILLE

Scientists claim most wars are caused by the struggle for natural resources. In that case perhaps our hope for lasting peace lies in science itself.

Scientists have already learned to produce artificially, in laboratories, many things which were once deemed natural products only, and research experts, at least, have no fear that mankind is exhausting natural resources.

In the world of tomorrow it is definite that we will not have to depend on a tree for our rubber. Gasoline, too, may be made from anything containing carbohydrate eventually. Successful experiments in high grade motor fuel have already been made with molasses.

Chemically grown plants prove that even soilless agriculture has possibilities, and eventually whole gardens might thrive in chemically treated water or sand. Another hope for food resources lies in advanced agriculture methods. Though less than 15 per cent of the world's land acreage is under cultivation, it is possible to envision this amount supplying food for twice our present world population through advanced tillage. A real possibility lies in the concentrated food tablet, and the artificial foods. Sugar has been produced from wood, and fat from coal, in Germany.

Exciting experiments are being made with the atoms of uranium, a very heavy metal. Though scientists are not willing to prophesy that atomic energy will be something in the near future, they do admit that it would make limitless quantities of power almost free of cost. Every human need could be supplied with only a tiny fraction of the labor now necessary to supply those same needs inadequately.

Atomic energy would be so powerful that of course humanity could destroy itself in the most horrible of all wars, but if science, by then, has made a struggle for natural resources unnecessary, it might even create a Utopia.

Jewelry Has Allure

College girls can wear last year's clothes right down to the last layer of threads now, and be in style. It's fashionable to conserve, and the rice need not be glamour.

Last year's blouses, dresses, and suits can be given a new outlook on life with the simple use of costume jewelry.

Tin has gone to war, but the new costume jewelry made of non-metal materials is plentiful, inexpensive, and trickier than ever.

Don S. Overturf visited the campus earlier this week. He is in charge of records of critical shortages in airplane construction in the equipment department at Douglas.

Slow, Joe; Famous Sayings May Send You To Your End, Friend

A new conversational feature that has recently hit the campus with a resounding thump is the rhymed salutation with which the addressor addresses is address to the addressee in such a fashion: "What's buzzin' cousin?" Translation—what's new, stew? Some extra-clever souls attempt triplicate rhymes as: "We're startin' partin', Martin." Meaning "see you anon, John" in dear ol' Shakespearean.

Had you been alive in the good old days, think of the joy college students would have had if they had heard Wellington address his troops before the Battle of Waterloo with the famous lines, "Give 'em the works, jerks." Or take the days of the American Revolution. Nathan Hale's immortal words of "Hang me quick, Slick," would have aroused the admiration of even the most cynical of college youths.

Putnam to Washington
 And can you imagine General Putnam at the battle of Bunker Hill as he roared out with "Don't fire 'till they're nigher, Meyer!"

To go back still farther into the depths of history, picture John Paul Jones when the British asked him to surrender and his staunch reply, "I won't give up the cruiser, bruiser."

George Washington must have made an interesting sight when he was confronted by his irate father, axe in hand, as he answered with the honest truth, "I gave it the chop, pop."

Greeley to Eve
 Perchance Horace Greeley might have been a victim of the rage, when he gave the well-known advice of "Go west, pest," to some enterprising young man.

Even the Pilgrim fathers wouldn't have been averse to such raging had they known that Priscilla would say, "You're driving me wackie, Jackie," to the pleadings of hero John Alden.

Eve might have told the worm that bothered her in the midst of the garden, "Jump in the lake, snake."

World War II has brought some similar slogans into being. For example, "Send us more Japs, saps. . . ." "Sighted sub, sank it, bub!"

So when you are feeling tired and blue . . . remember . . . take it easy, greasy. . . . End jokes, folks.

Capital To Campus

By Jay Richter, ACP Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (ACP)—War-time government is a 3-million job industry rapidly being taken over by the ladies.

At the moment, hiring of both men and women in many sections of government is frozen. Orders from the Budget Bureau have commanded a multitude of important agencies to bring staffs below ceilings in 30 days—or else.

But this unseasonal freeze doesn't mean the war boom in government service is over. Far from it. The need for trained personnel, especially women, in public service is over. Far from it. The need for trained personnel, especially women, in public service will continue to grow as government war services expand and re-organize.

What's more, the piecemeal withdrawal of men into the armed forces is just beginning to hit government where it hurts—in the ranks of 3A.

How many women will be needed before the year ends is anybody's guess. No authority will venture an official estimate. But whatever the number, it's sure to be large.

The march of women into government is a peace-time trend quickened by war. In 1933, 15 per cent of government positions were held by women. By 1942, the proportion had risen to 24 per cent. Now nearly 70 per cent of all new appointments and re-appointments go to women.

There are virtually no jobs in government today that women can't fill. Thus far, there are comparatively few women in the higher technical and administrative services and in the field services of such activities as forestry and certain aspects of public health work. But that doesn't mean women with the right training can't hold the jobs. Even in industrial occupations, a Social Security Board survey shows, 1468 of 1900 war occupations are wholly suitable for women and 276 partially suitable.

Nor does a government job necessarily mean a Washington job. At the first of the year, only 263,692 of the government's 2,687,093 employees were in Washington. Twenty-four per cent of the women, however, worked in the capital, indicating the field services still have less than their share of women.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SANTA ANA, April 30.—(To the Editor of El Don:—I've seen some letters from the student body in El Don in recent weeks, so I thought I'd take this opportunity to sound off on my particular pet peeve.

If you travel around to the jaysees in the Southland you will see many beautiful campuses and modernistic, well-equipped buildings. That is until you come to Santa Ana, which thriving town is represented among jaysees by two antiquated buildings, one frame and the other dull brick, a section of the local Board of Education building, and numerous bungalows that deserve no name better than "shacks." For a campus, Santa Ana Junior college has a portion of one block in the center of the city with a few worn-out trees and some square rods of grass. All this from a town of some 40,000 people located in the heart of one of the richest citrus areas in the entire world.

Now I realize that nothing can be done to remedy this situation right now, with the current ban on building and lack of available materials due to war shortages. But what I'm urging the responsible parties to avoid is the stagnation and procrastination that was evident in the last ten years.

A few suggestions for the new jaysee to be built after the war would be to move the campus site to the outskirts of town, thus allowing ample room for future expansion; building a model modern gymnasium and athletic field, the lack of which is a bane to the Santa Ana taxpayers and has cost them a figure close to $40,000 in the last ten years to rent the services of a local gym; and lastly, sponsoring a campaign to arouse public interest in the new college, thus breaking the spirit of indifferent tolerance that jaysee now meets in the local citizens.

In conclusion let me assure you that we are tired of the horse-laugh that the other Southland jaysees give Santa Ana.—N.M.

How to serve your country in the WAVES or SPARS

The same ratings, pay and opportunities for advancement which in the past have led thousands of men to "choose the Navy" are now open to enlisted women in the WAVES and SPARS. Women from 20 to 36 years of age are eligible for enlistment. "Never in history," says Secretary of the Navy Knox, "have American women been offered such a chance to serve their country. Never has there been such an urgent need for their service." Full information about training and opportunities for useful work is contained in the new booklet, "How to Serve Your Country in the WAVES or SPARS." It is obtainable at all Navy Recruiting Stations and Offices of Naval Officer Procurement.

WOMEN HIKERS INVADE CORONA

STARS IN SERVICE

Ten Women Take Part In Outing

The WAA hikers, after leaving Santa Ana's nine thirty bus at Balboa hiked along the bay to Corona Del Mar where they spent the rest of the day basking, bathing, and beating each other.

Ten college women met on the campus Saturday morning, April 24 at nine o'clock and then caught the nine thirty bus for Balboa at the corner of Third and Bush. From Balboa they took the ferry across the bay to the island and then proceeded by foot along the bay to Corona Del Mar. The girls reported that the sun was shining brilliantly when they left Santa Ana, but upon reaching Balboa a thick, soupy fog had rolled in, sitting down like rain and hiding the whole scene so that you couldn't even see the end of the jetty. Some of the members were so cold as to term the outing a "Snow Party."

After approximately two and one half hours of fog the sun came out in full measure and the women spent the rest of the morning sun bathing and swimming. The nose bag lunches brought by each girl was eaten throughout the morning and by noon all of the girls were definitely patronizing the nearby store.

The members wore the usual unearthy beach attire of straw hats and unmatching plaids, stripes and flowered outfits made of toweling. After having gotten complete sun burns, had eaten their sandy sandwiches, and had worn themselves to a frazzle, the girls boarded the Corona bus for home.

Those attending were Ada Mae Adkins, Virginia Michelson, Shirley Wright, Anne Foley, Betty and Claire McMillen, Marjorie McClung, Stella Hoover, Miss Maxine Knight, and as guest Miss Irene Noble, Santa Ana Girl Scout Troop secretary. The student director of the group, who did an excellent job, of planning the trip, but was unable to attend, was Evelyn Westburg.

"The Mexico I Like," by J. Frank Dobie, was published recently by the Southern Methodist University press.

Dr. Josephine M. Smith, assistant professor of child development and in charge of the pre-school work at Washington State college, recently enlisted in the WAAC.

JEANNE TURNER just finished bowling the ball which gave her spare when this picture was taken. Miss Turner, who had bowled very seldom when WAA took up the sport, is considered one of the season's most improved players.

WAA Executive Board Votes To Hold Bowling Tournament

The executive board of the WAA voted to have an inter-club tournament, with both men and women's clubs participating, it was disclosed today.

Five members shall represent each of the clubs in the competition held Wednesday, May 5, at the 5th street bowling alley. Every club is asked to cooperate to make this outing a great success and all members are cordially invited to support their team.

All service clubs, WAA, YMCA, and faculty are urged to participate. Let's make it a big event.

Inside Information On Outside Doings

Dorothy Denniss, Rita Trompetter, Ruth Murphy, Glenna Titchenal, Gloria Miodeck, Bernadine Curran, Maxine Hillyard, Patty Power, and Barbara Matson were the ten lucky babes who spent the whole of Easter vacation from Wednesday after school until Sunday, with Gloria Coulter, a former jaycee student, at her fiancée's beach home at Balboa Island. They spent their days cooking themselves and their meals, and going nightly to some "swell" dances. Twenty-three Pasadena J.C. boys broke into their house one night and ate up all of their food, including the breakfast cereal.

"Title-holding Dons Compete All-Conference Meet. San Bernardino Scene Of Track Classic For Seven Teams." "With the principal bids for points expected to come from Santa Ana and Fullerton, the all-conference track and field event tomorrow at San Bernardino will draw the Dons and six other league teams."

Carol Miller is really the "kid" of the Women's lounge at the Dons, and she is obtaining indigestion by playing hot boogie woogie while the girls eat the lunches.

Women Hikers Making Plans For Excursion On May 8

May 8 is to be the date of the next in the series of WAA hikes. It has not been decided as yet where the girls shall go, but the votes tend toward either Jack Fisher or Orange park.

The women shall make a day of it by leaving early Saturday morning to hike to the park where they will spend the day playing and cooking their outdoor lunch on the grill.

All of the detailed arrangements are being made by the student directors Muriel Verdugo and Ethel (Bonnie) Schoneman. For further information college women may ask either of Bonnie, Muriel, or Miss Maxine Knight, hike director. A list will be posted in the Women's gym where those wishing to participate can sign. All women students are invited to attend.

Middlebury college has increased the credit value of laboratory courses to clear the tracks for full speed ahead in the laboratory sciences.
